

ARRIVAL OF THE ARIEL.
INTERESTING FROM SPAIN
Our London and Paris Correspondence.

The steamship Ariel, Capt. Lefevre, of the Vanderbilt line, arrived yesterday afternoon from Havre, whence

She sailed at 6 o'clock P. M. of the 9th inst. She arrived at her dock at about 3 o'clock. She brings today's later intelligence from Paris than received by the Asia.

Paris:—
 T. Hillier, E. O'Reilly, J. Barnes, J. Hermann, T. E. Clarke, L. Le Conteux de Gaumont, T. Donnell and lady, C. M. Newbould, R. Abbott, R. Langdon, Jr. and lady, C. F. Stager, A. Van Buren, R. Brewster, J. Barmore, R. H. Knight, S. B. Lawrence, R. W. Nelson, and family, A. O. Wilcox, C. Tobias, J. Hendricks, J. Acker and lady, Miss E. Harbeck, J. C. Eccleston, H. S. Swift, J. H. Wales.

C. D. Schmidt, C. G. Brown, J. J. Ackerman, R. McKensie
W. S. Constant, L. A. Jacobus, P. S. Forbes, J. W. Wal-lack, E. H. Gibbs, G. Kraft, J. Montar, W. S. Mayo, J.
M. M. A. Mott, J. L. Allin, C. W. McKune, E. W.
Derby, M. C. C. Agnew, R. Smith, L. Tallman, S.
E. Horton, New York, R. Caldwell, G. Harley, Carolina; H. T. Davis, T. A. Brewer, Massachusetts; Deand family, J. Garais and daughter, New Jersey; Dr. H.
H. Smith and family, Mrs. H. W. Andrews, J. O. Mear-

E. W. Bailey and family, Miss J. Stewart, F. J. Grund, G. Rice, Mrs. Patterson and family, Mrs. O. A. Norris, J. W. Fassett and wife, Dr. J. T. Shaeffer, Pennsylvania; Mrs. E. L. Jones, John N. Gibson, Mississippi; A. Anthony, L. Lachar, J. V. Plume and family, Dr. R. McMillan, California.

There are some additional items of interest from Spain. The judicial investigation into the case of the conspirators arrested on the 28th of May was actively proceeding. One of the sergeants of the Deli Principe regiment, who is compromised in that affair, has, it is said, made disclosures which have placed in the hands of the government all the threads of the vast conspiracy which has evolved in several points of the Spanish territory. It was in consequence of these revelations that General Ros de Olano, director of the infantry, had left in haste for Toledo, where a plot had been formed in which it was sought to involve the pupils of the military school. Five of the Spanish

Ministers, namely, M. Luzuriaga, M. Madoz, M. Luján, M. Santa Cruz and M. Aguirre, had given in their resignations. The País says that the motives of their retirement are entirely personal, and will effect no change in the policy of the Spanish government. In referring more particularly to M. Luzuriaga, it states

The loyalty of his character, and the intelligent firmness which he has exhibited in affairs, frequently of a difficult and complicated nature, have mainly preserved the good understanding which was on the point of being soured, had it not been for the intervention of the Government.

General Zabala, who succeeds M. Luzuriaga in the ministry of foreign affairs, possesses a fortune of several millions of francs. In consenting to make part of the new cabinet, M. Zabala gives proof of the confidence which he entertains in the government whose responsibility he is about to share. M. Brull, the successor of M. Madox, Minister of Finance, is a rich banker of Saragossa, whose patriotism and financial experience pointed him out as the fittest person to fill that important office. It is only recently that he generously offered the Spanish government to assist it in its embarrassments, by placing at its disposal the whole of his fortune. Of the other three new ministers—M. M. Martinier, Fuenteandreu and Huelves—but little is known here. They

A very absurd duel recently took place between General Concha, brother of the Captain General of Cuba, and the Marquis of Albalade, in consequence of a discussion in one of the rooms set apart in the Cortes for deputies, and in which Orense was, as is much his wont, rude and ungentlemanly. They fought with sabres (long, straight, heavy weapons), and at the very outset of the combat General Concha perceived that his antagonists was utterly ignorant of fence. Thereupon he refused to continue, and insisted on pistols. The seconds, desirous to prevent bloodshed, put in unlimited powder, the consequence of which was that Concha was wounded in the hand by his own weapon. Orense, raising his pistol perpendicularly to fire in the air, received a slight hurt in the face from his own bullet. A precious affair, and which everybody is laughing, between a Captain General and the chief of the republicans.

Our London Correspondence.

LONDON, Friday, June 8, 1855.

The British Parliament—The Third Bombardment of Sebastopol—The Successes of the Allies—The Baltic Fleet close to Cronstadt—The Position of Austria—Serious Considerations—The Earliest Insurrection in Spain.

will continue. It shrouds nonpartisan members an opportunity of easing their minds on the subject; but as it is not likely to entail any defeat upon the government, or lead to any result whatever, and as, moreover, the speeches are unusually dull and stupid I will spare your readers an account of them.

The telegraphic communications between Varna and Balaklava, which had been momentarily interrupted, have again been resumed, and we learn that the third bombardment of Sebastopol commenced on the 6th June. This will probably be the final one. The tide of success is now high in favor of the allies. The Russians are disheartened by the recent terrible slaughter on the night of the 23d, when the French stormed their works near the central battery; and the destruction of nearly 300 ven-sels in the Sea of Azoff, of all their stores of grain, their forts, &c., is a blow they cannot well recover. Soujoukale, on the Circassian coast, has already surrendered; Anapa will fall next. I fully expect to have to announce to you shortly that the garrison of Sebastopol has retreated into the interior, or, abandoning the town, shut itself up in the great Northern fort on the other side.

With these mails you will receive Pelissier's report of the nights of 22d and 23d of May. Gortchakoff's

On the night of the 22d the Russian loss was 2,500 men, among whom was General Adlerberg. He does not say a word about the still more sanguinary affair on the following night. It was a terrible hand-to-hand fight with sword bayonet and

We learn to-day by telegraph that the allied squadrons in the Gulf of Finland were at anchor only five ron in the Gulf of Finland was 67 miles, only five miles west of Cronstadt. The Governor of Cronstadt, General de Dehn, had telegraphed the news to St. Petersburg, which is no very great distance, as a glance at the map will show you. It strikes me the Baltic fleet have an idée fixe of making some great coup. At all events, they wish to do some-

The Vienna Conference are now officially, as they had been already virtually, closed. Austria made a last attempt at a new set of proposals, which were immediately declined by the ambassadors of France and England, without a discussion. Germany will now probably declare a strict neu-

Germany will now probably hint that Austria will disengage 100,000 of her troops on the Galician frontier, after first coming to a secret understanding with Russia that neither party will take the offensive. This will enable Russia to send all the troops she has been concentrating in Poland to oppose an

So much for the advantage to the Western Powers of an Austrian ally. The same thing has occurred in the Danubian Principalities. Russia, being aware that Austria will not attack her, ~~went off~~ the greater portion of the troops she had, there, as long as the troops were on the Danube, to sup-

It is still to be seen how the Western governments will interpret this new "expected position" of Austria. There is no fear of Austria joining Russia, for it would be replied to by a war of nationalities; and, already nearly bankrupt in finances, she would become completely so in a week. This is the only commercial port, would fall in a few days; all Lloyd's boats in the Mediterranean be seized, and a kingdom of Italy formed under Victor Emmanuel, with Trieste, Genoa and Venice as free ports—the king guaranteed by the Western